Urban park plans hailed

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
"The 3,300 acres of Horseshoe Lake State Park plus the Cahokia State Park only a mile and a half away will give this area one of the largest and most unusual park areas in the state," Theodore Mikesell, executive director of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area and Regional Planning Commission, told members of the Granite City Optimist Club at the club's regular meeting Thursday in the YMCA.

Progress by the Department of Conservation in acquiring land for the Horseshoe Lake Park and plans for the park were the topics of discussion by Mikesell, James Monday, head of planning for SIMAPC, and Henry D. Karandjef, who has worked toward a park around Horseshoe Lake since the 1930s. Karandjef, chairman of the Horseshoe Lake State Park Commission, introduced the speakers and gave a brief history of efforts to have a park here. He noted the community has been using Horseshoe Lake as a recreation area for more than 70 years, and he recalled when St. Louis residents used to come over to Illinois on a ferry boat and then ride in an open steeple to popular resorts on the lake.

He said during 1932 and 1933, the Depression years, Mayor Marshall E. Kirkpatrick, then mayor of Granite City, and many others asked the county to approve a bond issue to make the lake a county park, but the bond issue was voted down, because people did not have much money.

Since that time, many efforts to have the lake area declared a park have been made. A commission on the lake was appointed by Governor William G. Stratten more than 20 years ago, and was reactivated several times, but was unsuccessful until Gov. Richard Ogilvie approved legislation to have the area declared a state park.

"We have been grateful to Gov. Ogilvie ever since," Karandjef noted.

Mikesell told the Optimists the combination of a Horseshoe Lake park, offering recreational areas, and Cahokia Mounds State Park, offering historical and educational finds, will make the parks in this area among the most unusual in the state.

He said everyone should take an active part in supporting the Boy, 3, drowns

Christopher Travis Ray, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Beverly) Ray, 2816 National Ave., drowned in a neighbor's pool Thursday afternoon.

Police said the boy was being cared for by an uncle, Ronald Long, 2569 Iowa St., who reported seeing the child playing down the street, near 2905 National Ave., about 1:30 p.m.

Long said he became concerned when the youngster failed to return home and started looking for him about 2 p.m. He asked a neighbor, Lonnie Fenton, 2901 National Ave., if he had seen the child, but he had not.

A short time afterward, Fenton looked out of a rear window and observed a body in the pool at 2905 National Ave. He called police and the uncle.

When officers arrived they reported the body was "behind the pool and over a fence." Long said he had pulled the child from the water and attempted resuscitation, to no avail.

Christopher was pronounced dead at the scene by Madison County Deputy Coroner Robert Thomas.

Police said the pool was filled

On and off the record Massages okay but no Playboys in Pontoon

The Pontoon Beach Village Board Friday evening approved an ordinance, similar to one now in effect in Belleville, which prohibits sale of sex-oriented books or magazines in the village.

If interpreted and applied as in Belleville, the ordinance could prohibit sale or delivery of such magazines as Playboy, Playgirl or Hustler.

One observer in the audience commented that it seems unusual the village has no ordinance against massage parlors but may have banned the sale of Playboy, a big-selling national publication.

Asked what ordinance the Pontoon Beach law resembles, Village Attorney Paul Guzzardo said he used the Belleville ordinance to aid him in drafting the document.

The ordinance makes it unlawful to sell, publish, print or distribute obscene pictures, motion pictures or plays or to perform obscene acts in public.

4 constitutions in 158 years

(30th of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series)
The current year marks the 200th anniversary of this nation's independence. Throughout America's history, a single U.S. Constitution has endured.

Illinoisans in their wisdom have seen fit to adopt not one but four state constitutions since statehood was attained 158 years ago.

Attempts to create new constitutions occurred in other years as well, but the efforts were successful only in 1818, 1848, 1870 and 1870.

Illinoisans share a deep commitment to representative government which rejects the most destructive forms of partisanship and which attempts to be impartial in the exercise of individual rights. This belief is best conveyed in the form of the state's written constitutions.

The content of any constitution, of course, depends on the sentiment of the majority at that time toward particular governmental structures which promise to best represent the people.

In 1818, Illinois' first constitution reflected democratic sentiments by vesting most power in the legislative branch

Choosing evergreens for shade

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT
Lawn and garden consultant
Azaleas and Rhododendrons are shining stars among shade-loving leafy evergreens. But Convex Japanese Holly, Mountain Laurel, Leucothoe and Japanese are high-quality evergreens for shade.

Azaleas and Rhododendrons perform best in moist, shady locations and acid soil. Rhododendrons are coarse-leaved plants that produce handsome bouquets of flowers. Azaleas may be evergreen or non-evergreen, depending on variety. Right now, local nurseries are well stocked with both families of plants and will guarantee their performance.

If you are uncertain about the acidity of the soil, mix sulfur and peat moss into the soil by spacing these ingredients into the soil. The resulting small mound makes an ideal planting location. Plant your azaleas or rhododendrons very shallow and permit the roots to go down.

Convex Japanese Holly and Helleri Holly are spreading evergreens with glossy small leaves. Convex Holly develops to the same shape and proportions as spreading Japanese Yews while Helleri Holly is a small compact dwarf. Both thrive in moist acid soil. Use the same soil recipe proposed for azaleas and rhododendrons.

Mountain Laurel is hardy in Special programs for youngsters this week

A special week of children's programming is scheduled in the afternoons on KETC-TV, Channel 9, to coincide with this week's spring vacation for school students.

Because Channel 9's daytime programming is funded by participating schools, the station must limit its instructional television broadcasts to the times when schools are in session. Therefore, KETC-TV usually does not broadcast before 3 p.m. on school holidays or vacations or during the summer.

Numerous calls and letters from parents requesting programming for children home on vacations has prompted Channel 9 to experiment and broadcast each day this week beginning at 12 noon.

Today at noon, viewers saw "The Adams Chronicles." This program spans 150 years and our generations of the historic Adams family, revealing America's history through their lives.

"Sesame Street" will air at 12 noon tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

On Friday at noon, "Nova," the series of science adventures, looks into "The Transplant Experience."

"The Electric Company" airs at 1 p.m. all this week.

Other programs include: "The History of the Motion Pictures: Sad Clowns," Wednesday at 2 p.m.; on Thursday, "Self-Incorporated" and "Inside-Out" at 2 p.m. and 2:15 p.m.; and "The Electric Company Documentary" today at 2 p.m. and again Friday at 2:30 p.m.

Channel 9 hopes to continue this type of programming during the summer with such programs as "The Letter People," "Sesame Street," "The Electric Company," and "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood."

Since funding from schools is unavailable, the station needs individuals or corporations to underwrite the programs in order for KETC-TV to broadcast during the summer, a spokesman said.

For information on Channel 9's programming or on how to become an underwriter, Quad-Cityans may contact: James Barnes, Director of Programming and Development, KETC-TV, Channel 9, 6996 Millbrook Blvd., St. Louis, Mo. 63130.

Installment tax payment due April 15

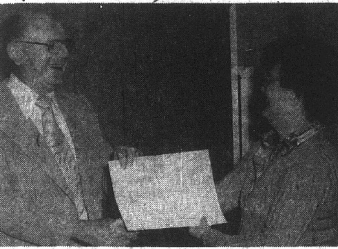

Many Central and Southern Illinois citizens who do not have enough taxes withheld are required to pay their first installment of 1975 federal income taxes no later than Thursday, April 15.

The total estimated tax due may be paid in four equal installments, April 15, June 15, Sept. 15 and Jan. 17.

"Many taxpayers realize that they meet the requirements for filing a tax declaration at this time of year," Ira S. Losh, IRS District Director for central and southern Illinois, said. "Generally, when the taxpayer will owe IRS more than $100 not covered by withholding, he should file a declaration of estimated tax. A Form 1040-ES voucher must accompany the first installment."

Taxpayers who filed a declaration of estimated tax last year should have received an estimated tax package in the mail, which includes four declaration vouchers and pre-addressed envelopes for making the 1975 declaration and payments.

IRS Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax," is available free from IRS offices to provide more details on the payment of estimated tax.

Burglars drop loot, escape

Two men, who were seen running from the home of George Ruffie, 1728 Cleveland Blvd., at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, following a burglary, there, were chased by neighbors to the L. Wolf Construction Co. lot at 1733 Cleveland Blvd., where they dropped items taken from Ruffie's home and escaped, police were told.

Neighbors said they heard Ruffie's dog barking and looked out to see two men carrying items and jumping over Ruffie's fence. They chased the men and saw them throw the items they were carrying into some bushes. They then escaped south on Cleveland Boulevard.

Police recovered a sewing machine and a toaster from the bushes. The items were believed to have been stolen from Ruffie's home. Glass in a rear porch storm door and in the door from the porch to the kitchen was broken to gain entry to the house. All the rooms and closets were ransacked.

A car which left the area moments later was followed by another witness to East 23rd Street and Nameoki Road, but the witness lost sight of it. There were four men inside.

Competition for channel continuing

Competition for the operation of Channel 40 between the St. Louis Educational Television Commission, licensee of KETC-TV, Channel 9, and the Double Helix Corp. is on a new level, according to a spokesman for Channel 9.

Channel 9 has just requested two other ultra-high frequency frequencies from the Federal Communications Commission.

Last summer, Double Helix requested that the FCC move Channel 18 from Edwardsville to St. Louis. The organization has now requested that the FCC assign Channel 46 to St. Louis.

Should either of the two alternate requests by Double Helix be granted by the FCC, competitive hearings on Channel 40 might not occur. Competitive filing for Channel 40 was closed by the FCC late last fall.

Robert C. Glazier, general manager, said KETC-TV needs Channel 40 to meet "the number of hours we need to broadcast all of the programs available."

"The educational programming needs of the station have increased enormously since Channel 9 was established in 1954. Today, Channel 9's schedule is bulging with college credit courses, a high school equivalency course, programs from the Children's Television Workshop and business and training courses, just to name a few," Glazier said.

KETC-TV, The PBS (Public Broadcasting Service) affiliate in St. Louis, has access to programming from PBS, the Public Television Library, the Southern Educational Communications Association and Channel 9's local productions. There are three times as many programs available as there are broadcast hours.

"The operation of two channels is an arrangement which is now commonplace in a dozen other leading U.S. cities. It would enable more of this programming to be aired, and it would allow for the telecast of programs which are of interest to small groups."

"Many excellent programs cannot be aired because of the economic drawbacks of a restricted audience," Glazier said.

"One central point in Channel 9's case is that a two-channel arrangement would be extremely economical, as existing technical resources could be deployed for the operation of two non-commercial television stations at relatively little cost," he added.

Area deaths up during March

A total of 39 deaths in the Quad-City area during March was an increase of 13 over a total of 26 occurring during February, according to a vital statistics report by City Clerk Robert Stevens. The report showed 76 births during March, a decline of four from 80 reported in February.

There was one fetal death in March, compared to none in January or February this year. The 76 March births brought to 232 the total for the first three months of this year, compared with 229 during the same three-month period last year.

Deaths during the period total 109, identical to the number occurring within the three months period of 1975.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

For example, members of a new planning commission in Troy are going to school twice a month studying administrative law, property law, annexation procedures and planning analysis.

Carl Lossau and Norman Johnsen, members of the SIUE earth sciences and planning faculty, are instructing the commissioners.

"We will assist them in the problems of growth and help them understand the problems connected with elected officials and the public," Lossau said.

The process of classroom learning in the community environment has produced benefits for everyone, they say. Solutions are provided for township and urban problems. Instructors are able to take what is happening in the "real world" and convert it into lecture material.

Students work with real problems, relating what they have learned in textbooks to what is happening to them in the field.

"How better can the students learn than by getting their hands into the mud?" Lossau asked. "We use experience as a laboratory workshop where students can become acquainted with problems facing urban planners today."

Faculty members see the service as a reflection of a promise made to people of the area by university administrators when SIUE was established more than ten years ago.

Johnsen is one of those people. "We think it is important for the university to provide services to units of local government. Is that not education?" Johnsen asked.

Both Lossau and Johnsen feel there is an obligation to the communities surrounding SIUE which goes back to the original mission of the educational institution. The three-fold mission has been described as "teaching, research, and service to the community."

Because of the significance of the mission, remuneration has been sought or received for only a few of the community projects, Lossau said. The local government usually pays for the supplies and equipment; the university provides the instruction and the researcher.

Problems besetting village and town officials range from soil analysis to traffic planning. Students in the program have to contend with these problems and many others confronting city planners today. Lessons learned in the operations at Troy, Hartford, O'Fallon and Wood River in Illinois, along with those in Hillsboro and Arnold in Missouri, will be put into practice wherever the graduates go to work.

"We supply more than the local market," Lossau said. "Our degree program has placed a number of directors of planning in municipalities and regional agencies in the Midwest, South, Southeast and along the Eastern Seaboard," Johnsen noted.

One of SIUE's graduates is a deputy director in Fort Worth, Tex. Another is the director of planning for a regional planning commission in Northern Florida.

Several African students are enrolled in the program, with plans for returning to their homeland to work in regional planning.

Two Canadian students, a husband and wife team, who graduated from the SIUE program are now working in Toronto, Canada. Paul Bedford is with the municipal government in Toronto. His wife, Eugenia, is employed by the Provincial government.

While women have always participated in the program, the SIUE professors say the number of female students in city planning is increasing.

There are only 25 educational institutions in the United States offering programs recognized by the American Institute of Planners. Only two such programs are offered in Illinois. The other educational institution offering a master of science degree in city and regional planning is the University of Illinois.

VENICE TRAFFIC STUDY. Faculty members of the earth science and planning department of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville discuss plans for a traffic study with Venice officials. Left to right are: Charles A. Thornton, assistant professor;

Carl Lossau, professor; Tom Fields, administrative assistant for the City of Venice; Norman Johnsen, assistant professor; and Duane Gergoff manager of the city-owned McKinley Bridge.

Fraud on eyeglasses is alleged

A scheme devised by one of the highest paid optometrists to bilk the government out of substantial Medicaid funds has been alleged by Illinois Department of Public Aid investigators.

State Public Aid Director James L. Trainor said Friday a departmental investigation revealed that the optometrist routinely substituted sunglasses for prescribed eyeglasses. He has been suspended from participation in the Medicaid program.

The optometrist billed the state for prescription eyeglasses, but provided recipients with sunglasses. It is contended the state Medicaid program does not pay eye care providers for sunglasses.

Public aid investigators were told by recipients that not only had they not received prescription eyeglasses but in some cases, the optometrist never examined their eyes.

The interviews also alleged, in other instances that the man practiced "assembly line optometry," prescribing eyeglasses for every member of a recipient's family whether he had seen them or not.

Total 1975 payments to the 2,061 optometrists, opticians and optical laboratories eligible to participate in the state's Medicaid program were $12,928,496.

The suspended optometrist received $101,247 during 1975. Illinois receives 50 per cent federal funds for its Medicaid expenditures.

Trainor also announced that five more physicians and a dentist have been suspended from the Medicaid program.

No Madison County doctors are believed involved, despite reports to the contrary.

The seven newest suspensions, which include the optometrist, bring to 60 the number of Medicaid providers suspended by the Illinois Department of Public Aid this year. The 60 suspended providers include 12 clinical laboratories, 29 physicians, 15 pharmacists, two dentists, a pediatrician and an optometrist.

Public Aid payments to all of the suspended Medicaid providers have been halted and any evidence of possible fraud or collusion has been turned over to law enforcement agencies.

During fiscal 1975, Medicaid expenditures in Illinois totaled $685,600,000 to 29,400 vendors that provide medical services to the state's more than 1,000,000 public aid recipients.

Trainor said a large number of physicians, dentists, pharmacists, optometrists, nursing homes and other medical providers are currently under investigation or audit by the Public Aid Department.

Police alleged Singer was carrying a 9mm chrome-plated automatic pistol in his waistband and a clip in his jacket pocket, containing four hollow point 9mm cartridges. Singer's companion was released.

Angelo Baker indicted in Madison murder case

A Madison County Grand Jury Thursday named Angelo Dwayne Baker, 17, of 16 Greener Homes, Madison, in four indictments in connection with the shooting death of March 31 of Frank Riddle of Madison, and with the shooting of Mrs. Ann Riddle in the couple's home.

Baker, being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $250,000 bond, was indicted on one count of murder in the course of another forcible felony such as robbery.

Riddle, 59, and his wife Ann, 49, were shot in their home at 1701 Market St., Madison, at 10 a.m. on March 31, during an alleged robbery attempt by three persons who entered through an unlocked kitchen door while the Riddles were at the kitchen table.

An ensuing scuffle resulted in the shootings, when one of the three took a gun from Mr. Riddle which he had taken from a kitchen drawer. The couple's dog was also shot and killed. The gun then was stolen from the home and has not been found.

Mrs. Riddle remains hospitalized in the intensive care unit at Jewish Hospital, St. Louis.

State statutes allow a separate count of murder if a killing is committed in the course of another forcible felony such as robbery.

Riddle, 59, and his wife Ann, 49, were shot in their home at 1701 Market St., Madison, at 10

Fills own vacancy on Pontoon board

Paul Bennett, 41, of 18 Fontaineau Drive, Pontoon Beach, who resigned Nov. 20 from the Pontoon Beach Village Board, was reinstated by the Board of Trustees Friday evening as a trustee.

Trustee Don C. Rea suggested Bennett's name for appointment to fill the vacancy, noting the village board had been unable to muster a quorum at its last two meetings due to the vacancy created by Bennett's resignation.

He said Bennett was willing to be reappointed and the motion to return him to the board was made by Rea.

Village Board President Floyd David Moss immediately called for a 10-minute executive session of the board in a back room to discuss the issue.

He said the executive session was to discuss personnel, one of the topics for which public bodies may call private sessions.

When the board returned to the meeting room, Rea's motion was passed unanimously with even Moss voting in favor. Moss is not required to vote unless the other trustees tie in their voting.

Rea suggested Bennett, who was in the audience, be seated immediately and be allowed to serve during the remainder of the meeting, but Moss declined the request after conferring with the village attorney, Paul Guzzardo.

Moss explained the clerk must administer the oath and it would be necessary to check if Bennett's surety bond is still in effect before he could be allowed to serve. Moss pledged Bennett would be seated at the next meeting.

Bennett declined to comment on his reasons for accepting the appointment, but friends said he was willing to return to the board due to "a different political climate," than when he resigned.

The board also voted to hire Catherine Carroll to fill a vacancy as a police dispatcher on the village police department. The pay is $100 per week and the new dispatcher began her duties Saturday.

Bennett is a brother of Pontoon Police Chief Rosewell Bennett Jr.

of government; by eliminating all property qualifications for voting; and by providing that most officials be popularly elected.

The executive branch was consciously weakened by making the governor ineligible to succeed himself.

Since state expenditures scarcely exceeded $46,000 by the fifth year of the state's existence, it was thought that there was no real need for major executive power.

The bicameral legislature was limited to a maximum of 36 representatives and 18 senators until the population reached 100,000, after which it could expand according to a formula.

Empowered to make laws, the legislature also had the authority to appoint the executive officers it found "necessary."

Most important, the justices of the supreme court were associated with the governor in a Council of Revision which had the right to veto bills passed by the legislature but whose veto could be overridden by a simple majority of that body.

The council proved to be ineffective.

It was really a violation of the principle of separation of powers, since the justices who sat on it found themselves involved in lawmaking as well as in deciding on the constitutionality of the laws they helped to enact.

The delegates compromised on the issue of slavery.

They agreed to prohibit bringing any new slaves or indentured servants into Illinois, and to free the children born of these groups already in the state, when such children reached adulthood.

On the other hand, existing legal rights in slavery and indenture were protected.

Heavy criticism resulted from the failure to expressly prohibit any future changes in the constitution which might allow the introduction of slavery.

It was this inaction which explains the 34 dissenting votes in the United States Congress, House of Representatives, against Illinois' application for statehood.

By 1847, the political situation in Illinois changed and a constitutional convention was called.

The principles of Jacksonian democracy then dominant precluded executive power over legislative; supported popular election rather than appointment of judges and executive officials; and exhibited a general hostility toward banking.

Once again, however, the state was fortunate in that the convention was not designated by either Democrats or Whigs.

The resulting constitution was a reasonably balanced, representative document.

The power of the governor was increased by abolishing the Council of Revision and by giving him the legislative veto.

His veto, however, could be overridden by a simple majority of the legislature rather than by the two-thirds majority, which most Jacksonian Democrats supported.

Fast food contracts awarded

Contracts totaling $125,652 for installation of a "fast food" operation in the SIUE University Center were awarded by the SIUE Board of Trustees Thursday at Carbondale.

The successful bidders include Food Equipment Corp., St. Louis, kitchen equipment, $64,106.

A resolution approved by the board includes increasing the budget for the capital project from $120,000 to $129,652, with funds to be provided by the student welfare fund and the Recreational Facility Building Trust Fund.

The fast food operation will be similar to the operations of popular hamburger restaurants. The plans provide for renovation of the "Cougar Coffee House" in the northeast corner of the lower level dining area of the University Center.

Officials have been searching for methods to reduce escalating food service operating costs while meeting demands for low-cost feeding.

Replace burned SIUE housing during summer

Reconstruction of Building 528, Tower Lake Apartments on the SIUE campus, was authorized Thursday by the SIUE Board of Trustees and the project was given "emergency" status.

The eight-apartment building in the single-story housing complex was demolished by fire March 23, during the break between winter and spring quarters. Eleven students in the building escaped unharmed.

Thirty-two students were assigned to the building, and the university is providing temporary housing for them in other Tower Lake apartments.

Under emergency provisions of board bylaws, the chairman and board executive committee can expedite bidding and award of contracts, it may be possible to start construction work before summer.

Bill Hall, director of university housing, said he hopes the replacement building can be in service by the start of the fall quarter.

The board authorized retention of Jack A. Gockel of Staunton as architect to review original plans and specifications and revise them for bidding and construction.

The original building was part of the new complex of apartments opened in September 1975.

Less of the building, valued at $175,000, was covered by insurance except for $1,000 deductible assumed by the board.

banks was defeated.

But a requirement was adopted providing that any laws which did incorporate banks had to be ratified by the electorate in the next election.

All state and county officers were made elective.

The principle of popular election was further extended to supreme court justices, who would serve nine-year terms.

Under the formula of the constitution of 1818, the size of the legislature had grown to 102.

The new constitution reduced it to 100 - 75 representatives and 25 senators.

Suffrage was limited to white, male citizens over 21 years of age.

As in 1818, a bipartisan agreement on the slavery question was reached.

It resulted in the prohibition of Negro suffrage as well as in the adoption of a constitutional prohibition against the immigration of any Negroes, free or slave, into the state of Illinois.

Demonstrating that the delegates had indeed captured the real sentiments of Illinoisans, the second constitution was approved by a four-to-one majority on March 6, 1848.

The first two state constitutions indicated quite clearly that Illinois politics did not reflect basic and crucial sectional, social or ideological cleavages. Only on the slavery issue was that even implied.

In all other instances, it appears that Illinois' constitutions have been truly representative documents.

They have mirrored the fact that most Illinois political parties are primarily aggregations of people seeking to win and exercise power, rather than supporters of basically conflicting philosophical and ideological positions.

Child hit by truck

A 3 1/2-year-old child struck by a tractor-trailer truck at 12:17 p.m. Friday, apparently sustained only swelling and abrasions to his right upper arm.

Brenda Sanders, 34, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sanders, 4037 Braden Ave., underwent x-rays at St. Elizabeth Hospital following the accident.

The x-rays disclosed no fractures but she was admitted to the Pediatrics Ward for observation.

Authorities were told the child ran from between two parked autos in the 3900 block of Pontoon Road and into the path of an eastbound truck, loaded with five-gallon drums.

The truck operator, Loren A. Jones of Valley Park, Mo., told police he did not see the small girl until she was in front of the vehicle.

Scott to focus on clean river and noise issues

Attorney General William J. Scott announced last week that he is shifting the focus of his seven-year anti-pollution fight to the cleanup of Illinois rivers and also more effective control of noise sources, including O'Hare Airport.

"Recent court decisions regarding the giant Inland Steel and U.S. Steel plants make it clear we're safely on the way toward saving Lake Michigan, which was our number one goal," Scott told the Environmental Law Committee of the Chicago Bar Association.

He noted also that another principal environmental target, sulfur dioxide air pollution in the Chicago area, has been reduced 85 per cent from its peak.

Now, the attorney general declared, "we will go after river pollution with all the new legal tools we developed in the attack on Lake Michigan pollution."

He will look first at the Fox River west of Chicago, formerly a drinking water supply for Elgin and many other communities but now polluted by industrial discharges, Scott asserted.

"Those towns had to dig wells and now even these wells are threatened by falling water tables," he said. "I'd like to make the Fox River from Algonquin to Aurora fit again for a drinking water supply."

He said Fox River pollution is caused by "scores of industrial discharges."

Regarding noise pollution, Scott called attention to a "little-noticed but highly significant victory" won by his office last month in the suit against O'Hare noise.

The ruling, by new Federal District Judge George Leighton, turned down a motion by the city of Chicago to dismiss allegations of six suburbs that the airport's noise constitutes a nuisance under common law. Scott's lawyers represent the suburbs as well as the state in the O'Hare case.

DeMolays visit Freedom train

Several members of the James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolays, visited the Freedom train in St. Louis Thursday evening with advisor Charles Meyer.

At a regular meeting held earlier in the week, Bob DeCourcy, senior counselor elect, reported the chapter's bowling team placed second in the District 15 bowling tourney held at the new Cottonwood Bowl, Glen Carbon.

Master Counselor-elect James Boyd was in charge of the meeting and introduced the bowling team which included DeCourcy, Mark Doolittle, John McNall, David Sipes and Anthony Tsigaloroff, with Bob Hollenbeck as advisor.

Plans were announced for the public installation ceremony for all elected and appointed officers on Tuesday, April 20, at the Masonic Temple. Dancing and refreshments will follow the ceremony.

After the meeting refreshments were served by the Mother's Club.

Remodel Altan campus center

Contracts totaling $185,276 for capital improvements to the old "university center" building at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Dental Medicine (Altan Center) were awarded by the SIUE Board of Trustees Thursday.

Known as Building 273, the structure is to have its first and second floors remodeled to provide centralization of School of Dental Medicine administrative offices in one building.

Funds for the improvements are being provided by a fourth year "start-up" grant from the National Institute of Health. The successful contractors include Powell Construction Co., Hartford, $82,818 for general construction work.

Renovations in the basement level of the building were started this year. The improvements were funded by the Capital Development Board in the amount of $100,000 and involved the heating, air conditioning, plumbing and electrical systems.

Administrative offices to be located in the renovated building include the office of the dean, office of student affairs, campus general office and registrar.

Notices of the presidential vacancy are being circulated on campus and nationally. The deadline for applications and nominations is June 4.

Interested persons are to write to W. Deane Wiley, Campus Box 92, SIUE, for the prospectus which will be prepared by the committee, detailing the job criteria and qualifications required.

Career classes lead big surge in community college enrollment

Enrollments at the 49 campuses of the Illinois public community colleges again showed the highest increase of all institutions of post-secondary education in Illinois for the fall 1975 term reports showed Friday.

Enrollment increased 20.9 per cent over the 257,000 enrollees of the fall 1974 term.

During the fall term of 1975, Illinois public community colleges enrolled over 311,000 students in credit courses, nearly one-half (47.9 per cent) of all students in higher education in Illinois.

Another 86,000 individuals are enrolled in non-credit offerings and activities.

The increase in enrollment was shown to be 28 per cent in full-time students and 12 per cent among part-time students, a reversal of the trend of the past years.

Total full-time students enrolled during the fall of 1975 was 106,722 (32 per cent of the total) compared to 210,459 part-time students (68 per cent of the total).

The number of full-time equivalent (FTE) students, which is the statistical enrollment obtained by dividing the total number of credit hours carried by all students by 15 for a given term, showed an increase of 26.1 per cent, even greater than the increase in head count from fall 1974 to fall 1975.

This accounts for a record FTE fall enrollment of 156,883. When added to 15,000 summer 1975 FTE students, the figure brings the total to a new high of over 170,000 FTE students enrolled thus far in the 1975-76 calendar year.

Enrollments in public universities increased 6.6 per cent and private institutions showed a 1.6 per cent increase from fall 1974 to fall 1975.

Career-occupational instructional programs experienced the highest rate of increase over last year with a 38 per cent change.

This is in contrast to the last few years, when the highest increases were in the general studies program areas.

The following table contains a breakdown of enrollments by instructional area, listing 1974 and then 1975.

Baccalaureate oriented, 95,942 and 108,025, up 12.6 per cent.

Career-occupational oriented, 72,943 and 100,435, up 37.7 per cent.

General studies and undeclared, 88,480 and 102,721, up 16.1 per cent.

Totals, 257,365 and 311,181, up 20.9 per cent.

Analysis of the fall 1975 enrollments reveals that female students outnumbered male students for the second consecutive year.

There are 157,577 females enrolled, compared to 153,604 male enrollees.

The analysis also indicated that the median age of community college students was 25 years, Bruce R. Wissore, assistant to the Belleville Area College president, told the Press-Record.

This represents an age increase from 1974, when the median age was 23.

Enrollment percentages by ethnic origin groups were calculated to be: 20.5 per cent, black Americans; 4.5 per cent, Spanish-Americans; 0.7 per cent, Oriental Americans; 0.4 per cent, American Indians; and the remaining 74 per cent, white Americans.

Work on Interstate 70 viaduct

Plan outlines theoretical school service cutbacks if fund squeeze becomes severe

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

Alternative proposals which could be implemented if the Granite City School District financial situation makes them necessary were outlined to the Granite City Board of Education last week.

B. J. Davis, superintendent of schools, presented the proposals, which he stressed may not have to be used.

Board Member Thomas Midway noted after studying the proposals, "At least we have a plan if this comes upon us."

Supt. Davis noted deficits in the transportation and municipal retirement funds at the end of last year that had to be corrected through borrowing from other funds. Those loans must be repaid immediately when taxes are received after July 1, the start of the fiscal year.

Davis predicted this year that it will be necessary to loan the transportation fund $120,000 to $140,000, and that the municipal retirement fund will require a loan of about $100,000.

He said the tax rate for the transportation fund, now 12 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation, is at its legal maximum and commented, "We will continue to run a deficit balance unless we drastically curtail our transportation program."

He said the municipal retirement fund "has continually run behind revenues," and the expenditures "are always higher than anticipated."

Supt. Davis said the state's reduction of its school aid reimbursement formula from 100 percent to about 84.5 percent has come at a bad time for the school district, which already is receiving less state aid from a declining enrollment while prices continue to rise.

He stressed the proposals to reduce expenditures are not recommendations.

"It should not be construed by anyone as something that will happen, but rather as a report to the board on areas which could be considered if the revenue of this district continues to decline in relation to expenditures."

"A great deal of the decisions that may be necessary will depend upon what the state of Illinois does in providing revenues to support the schools," he added.

The superintendent contended that the Granite City School District "is in better financial condition than a majority of the school districts in Illinois." The school district has not issued tax anticipation warrants since 1961, he noted proudly.

"This district has given, I believe, a most notable financial accounting of itself over the past several years."

"Although costs have escalated at a moderate pace and expenditures have increased, our tax rate has remained below $1.00 assessed valuation over the past three years," Davis related.

"This paradox is due to the board immediately eliminating taxes when their specific uses are past, and the district's vigorous seeking of state and federal monies that help reduce expenditures from local revenues."

"This district presently receives more than 50 percent of its operating revenue from the state of Illinois."

Davis presented a four-phase program to reduce expenditures, saying any action would have to be approved by the Board of Education.

Phase One of the proposal, which could be implemented to help alleviate mild shortages, included replacing retiring staff members with teachers having less experience and thus lower on the salary scale.

Also in the plan is the phasing out of some older elementary school buildings, placing a moratorium on a new non-mandated programs and curriculum offerings, and using substitute teachers for homebound tutoring.

Phase One also could include a pay bonus for early retirement of certified teachers, thus helping reduce the work force.

Phase Two suggestions could be implemented should there be a more financial "crunch" and would be aimed at "maintaining services and programs, but at a lesser degree than presently offered," Davis noted.

The Phase Two proposals included reducing the support staff, such as custodians and cafeteria workers; increasing the ratio of the number of pupils per teacher; reducing nursing services; realigning administrative positions; reducing extracurricular assignments, and other possible steps.

Phase Three would be considered only if it became necessary to drastically curtail costs in order to keep the educational program operating, Davis explained.

Such actions might include freezing salaries or holding salary increases to "step" or "training" raises only; studying all contractual services in all support areas; keeping fringe benefits, such as insurance, from rising and possibly reducing insurance benefits; and reducing non-academic teaching positions at the elementary level, including music programs, offering them only as extracurricular programs.

Phase Four consists of small savings programs which could be implemented at any time, including reducing in-service programs and staff and student trips, decreasing long-distance contests, purchasing fewer instructional supplies, reducing student transportation offerings, and considering all purchases and services carefully with the aim of reducing expenditures in every way possible.

Supt. Davis also recommended that the district employ an outside consulting firm to study present data processing operations with the aim of increased utilization for broader application.

GC police to host state conference

The Granite City Police Department will host the annual conference of the Illinois Division of the International Association for Identification Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24, Chief of Police Ronald Veizer announced last week.

Conference sessions will be held at the Holiday Inn, Collinsville. Approximately 75 representatives of Illinois police departments are expected to attend.

Among topics to be considered at the convention will be handwriting analysis, photography and use of the Smith and Wesson Identikit, and discussions by representatives of the auto theft division of the secretary of state's office and the Illinois Bureau of Identification.

At Veizer's request, the City Council last week authorized payment of $200 for registration and miscellaneous expenses of nine members of the Granite City Police Department who will attend the convention.

The council also authorized expenses of $100 each for Robert Jackson and Ernest Hubbard of the sewage treatment plant to attend a three-day conference of the Illinois Association of Water Pollution Control, beginning today.

The convention today, Tuesday and Wednesday, is being held in Springfield.

The state also approved dissolving the Lindsay Corporation, 3308 Highway 162, as a domestic corporation and issued it a charter as a foreign corporation from Missouri.

Real Estate, is president, and Helen M. Lindsay of the same address is secretary. The new charter is "to conduct a general construction business. The charter listed $1,000 of stated capital.

Plans for the approaching diving season will be reviewed and a proposed five schedule will be finalized at tomorrow's meeting, Earney said; all area divers are invited to attend.

A pre-season equipment check also is scheduled from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday, April 25, at the Edwardsville YMCA. A pool, under the supervision of Phil Lamm, Midwest Diving Council training and safety officer.

Kristoff in Hall of Fame

Larry Kristoff, the coach who inaugurated wrestling as a varsity sport at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville five years ago, has been elected to the Illinois Wrestling Coaches and Officials Hall of Fame.

Kristoff, who won national recognition as an intercollegiate wrestler at SIU at Carbondale and went on to world fame both as an Olympic star and amateur competitor, was inducted into wrestling's Hall of Fame at a dinner held at Western Illinois University at Macomb Saturday night.

A native of Anna-Jonesboro, Kristoff gained Illinois prep all-star recognition as a grinder. He played two years of football for the Salukis before deciding to devote full-time to wrestling.

Since graduating from SIUE, Kristoff has posted 11 NAU national championships, won the National Federation title four times, captured the Midlands championship four times, won the Pan American championship once and placed second in the World Games three times and third twice. He was fourth in the 1964 Olympics and fifth in the '68 Games.

Since coming to SIUE as mat coach, Kristoff has produced 16 all-Americans, and his teams have posted third, second and sixth place finishes in NCAA division II post-season competition.

He has been named to coach the United States World Cup team for the second straight year and has been invited to coach the U. S. Olympic team which will compete this summer at Montreal, Canada.

Incorrect addresses delay mail

Mail users could prevent some delivery delays and save the U.S. Postal Service some $30 million per year by using accurate and complete addresses, postmasters of the Quad-City area reported in a statement Friday.

The statement by Postmasters Herbert Backs of Granite City, William Clinton of Madison and William Singleton of Venice, said:

"Every day, more than 10 million pieces of mail with incorrect, incomplete or illegible addresses come into the nation's post offices.

"We try hard to deliver this mail, but the time and effort spent forwarding or returning it to the sender adds a tremendous expense to our operation.

"Undeliverable as addressed" mail can be forwarded, providing the addresses moved and left a forwarding address. "But the forwarding process causes at least a day's delay in delivery," they said.

"A correct address means a complete address. We have almost as much trouble with partially addressed mail as we do with inaccurately addressed mail."

The postmasters stressed the importance of a return address. "Incorrectly addressed letters and parcels that cannot be delivered but have return addresses are returned to the sender. Those without return addresses end up in the dead-letter office where they are opened in an effort to find the address of the sender or addressee. When neither is found, the mail just can't be delivered number, street address, city, state and zip code. "And finally," they said, "don't forget the postage. Letters without postage are returned to the sender, and if there is no return address, letters are sent to the dead-letter office."

Department on Aging offers help

If you are old, alone, and are faced with problems that seem insurmountable — where can you turn for help?

The Illinois Department on Aging has established "Aging, Box 60, Springfield, Ill. 62705" to help put people in touch with problem solutions and resources.

"Solutions, many times, are available," said Kenneth W. Holland, director of the department. "But if you don't know where to turn for help, that solution may as well not exist."

Holland said that although the department has established a statewide Information and Referral System through Area Agencies on Aging and Nutrition Projects, many older people may still be unaware of services that are available.

"The Aging, Box 60 program makes help as near as your mailbox," he emphasized.

Holland said response to the program has been good. Questions that are available.

Labor, business, government to try to upgrade business climate

The Illinois State Chamber of Commerce has invited over 40 leaders of business, labor, agriculture, government and statewide organizations to develop a long-range program to improve the state's business climate, stimulate economic growth and create new jobs.

The first meeting of the new coalition, scheduled for Friday noon, May 7, at the State Chamber's headquarters in Chicago, is in response to an attitude study of Illinois businessmen and women which showed they strongly believe the Illinois business climate is deteriorating.

State Chamber President Lester W. Brann Jr. joined those who participated in the survey in urging an immediate analysis of all factors which affect future capital investment and job creation.

"I am hopeful each of the individuals and organizations being invited to join this coalition will come prepared to discuss those issues which can, through a cooperative effort, respond to short-term efforts—and also will be willing to roll up their sleeves to develop and implement a long-range economic development program for Illinois."

"Economic growth has failed to keep up with the demands of our state for creation of new jobs," Brann said.

"Illinois' current unemployment rate, particularly in the Chicago area, should be a top-priority item for everyone. The fact that our unemployment rate has failed to respond to an improved economy as rapidly as the rest of the nation may be one result of the less-than-optimistic attitude on the part of the business people.

"Preserving present jobs and developing future growth are goals which can be shared by business, labor, agriculture, education, government and key state organizations."

"We should all be able to agree on the roadblocks inhibiting growth and generate a unified grassroots effort to assure that Illinois' economy moves ahead vigorously."

Maryville school marks Bicentennial with tree planting, dances, exhibits

Marvella School celebrated the Bicentennial as an all-day festival last week. Jack Mulach, principal, who said a highlight of the morning activities was the planting of the "Liberty Tree," planned the event by Mrs. Ann Scott and fifth-grade students. Dimas had been collected all year for the 16-foot High Linden tree. During the planting, all students in the school made a contribution. To honor the tree, then each student threw a handful of dirt into the hole.

The evening activities were from 5:30 to 8 p.m., starting with an Open House room where students displayed their arts and crafts, colonial costumes, and scenes depicting colonial living and historical events were featured. Most of the children, the staff and many of the adult guests wore colonial costumes. Throughout the early part of the evening, children of each grade took turns doing folk dances they had learned in Margaret Roberts' physical education classes.

Lining the halls were 3x3 murals done by Mrs. Ann Scott, illustrating colonial dress of various craftsmen, military men and social positions. An antique show was organized by Mrs. Ann Davis.

The evening activities began with a Colonial Days Fashion Parade in which about 100 children took part. Three short plays were presented: "Betsy plays were presented: "Betsy Ross Meets George Washington" by the first grades, "Highlights of American History" by the second grades and "Our Great Declaration" by Mrs. Gloria Skubish's fourth grade reading class.

The finale of the evening was an essay read by Guy Lehr, accompanied on the piano by Ken Jones, music instructor, ending with the entire group joining hands and singing "America."

individual stitches. Mrs. Virginia Evans' kindergarten class displayed individually made flags of the same design. The first graders, under the direction of Pam Weyhaupt, Kathy Jones and Mrs. Marty Klamer displayed candles they had hand-dipped, clay candle holders, weaving samples and a variety of vegetable jewelry, soaps and jelly which they made. They made and wore dust caps and tri-cornered hats. They also displayed cloth flags and a crosspatch quilt they had made.

The second grades of Mrs. Ida Weiss, Mrs. Sara Huber and Mrs. Joyce Sullivan made flags, drums, eagles and Liberty bells.

Third grades of Mrs. Vicki Boyd, Mrs. Marlene Brandt and Mrs. Margie Graves made their own Indian costumes, did an Indian dance, made Ben Franklin kites, planted tomatoes, and made Bicentennial ornaments.

Quill pens, inkwells, hornbooks and drums were displayed by the fourth grade classes. They also made cross-stitch samplers as Bicentennial souvenirs. Mrs. Dede Hodges' class made red, white and blue candles, eagles and was in the process of making a patchwork quilt which is to be contributed to the Madison County Historical Society Museum in Edwardsville.

Mrs. Gloria Skubish's class hand-booked a rug and made a model of the Jamestown fort, a plantation, and Bicentennial scrapbooks. Mrs. Carol Hornback's class made a cross-stitch patchwork quilt cover for their colonial room constructed in exhibits of the Revolutionary War era in the classrooms. In this view, fourth-grade students entertain with skits in the school gymnasium.

100,000 DRIVERS FAIL

EACH YEAR, over 100,000 licensed drivers fail the state written exam when they are retested. Experts say, "The reason is simple: that rules, laws and traffic signs have changed and drivers just don't keep up with all the changes." When your license expires this year, you may be among the over-100,000 drivers that will be retested. If you're nervous about being retested and don't want the embarrassment of failing, here's good

State hopes to link traffic victims and those awaiting eyes, kidneys

Michael J. Howlett, secretary of state, said Saturday his office is moving rapidly to implement Illinois' new organ donor sticker program for driver licenses.

Howlett spoke at the 12th annual meeting of the Illinois Conference of Women Leaders for Traffic Safety, held at Peoria.

"Drivers willing to give their kidneys, eyes and other organs in case of accidental death can make it easier by using the new stickers," Howlett said.

"The Traffic Safety Advisory Council, which helps our office prepare improved safety legislation, recommended the organ donor program, which is now law.

"From now on, new driver licenses issued in Illinois will be accompanied by a message to fasten an organ donor sticker on the upper right corner of the back of the license, if desired. In an accident, the first place checked for identification is the driver license in a wallet or purse. The vivid little orange sticker will alert authorities that a Uniform Donor Card, a legal document, is somewhere on the donor's person.

"The donor card itself could easily be missed among all the cards normally found in a wallet. But the sticker on the license can save precious time needed so that somebody else can regain his sight or even save his life.

"The Kidney Foundation of Illinois and the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness worked with us to prepare the legislation. They are producing the stickers and cards.

"They are pooling their resources with other organizations interested in organ donations. They will distribute the stickers and cards to doctors' offices, hospitals and medical centers, and we will have supplies available in our own driver license facilities.

"There are now 1,550 kidney sufferers in Illinois living on dialysis machines. They spend 18 to 24 hours a week hooked to the machine. Average life expectancy on the machine is only six years.

"Donated kidneys could restore many of them to normal life.

"Last year, the Illinois Eye Bank reported 265 corneal transplant operations to save or improve sight. But there are always more than 100 on a waiting list for a new cornea to become available.

"A potential donor can offer to contribute any part of his anatomy—his eye, his kidneys, his liver, his heart, or his whole body—for transplantation, therapy, medical research or education.

"But transplants, to be successful, must be prompt after the death of the donor.

"Our new program will make it possible for Illinois drivers to make vital organs available in time for effective use. And it will offer new hope to other suffering Illinois citizens waiting for help that otherwise might never come."

Moderation, interest in future are described as keys to long life

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension
Adviser-Henry Escamoles
Why do some people live to a ripe old age while others die prematurely?
It is not always that unexpected serious ailment that makes the difference.
According to studies of people who lived longer than average lives, longevity may be linked to lifetime habits, reports the Institute of Life Insurance.

Here's what a recipe for a long life would look like, based on recent studies on longevity:
- Accommodate yourself to life's challenges.
- Avoid prolonged stress.
- Develop entire interests.
- Keep working at either paid or volunteer activities.

- Eat and drink sparingly, but with enjoyment.
Similar traits were found among "successfully old" people by a University of Wisconsin researcher, based on a study of more than 2,000 Americans who lived longer than average.
Dr. Robert J. Sampa of the university's medical school faculty said, "There is a definite personality type among people blessed with long life." His list of traits includes "middle-of-the-road" moderation, serenity and an interest in the future.

"That long life is no accident is also the conclusion of another study of Americans over 100 years of age by the American Medical Association.

When asked what kept them young, the centenarians listed: an easygoing disposition, a quick sense of humor and a desire to keep active.
A prolonged life through meaningful interests and activity is also the recipe of a group of retired university faculty members.

Among those who were in good health at the time of their formal retirement, those who worked afterward at such tasks as consulting were found to be more likely than the non-workers to describe themselves as being in good health, a study showed.
Volunteer work also has a salutary effect, a study of older volunteers in the Middle West found. The word provided "a social identity, a sense of continuity with the past, and an important sense of social future."

University of Wisconsin's Dr. Sampa outlines some things that "look to be instrumental" in continuing life:
"Sleep is essential for survival, and the older you get the more you will need.

"Seek reasons to be happy instead of courting the eternal damnations that beset you."
"Smoke within reason, limit drinking to social occasions and use it as a relaxant rather than a crutch."
"Don't fight your enemies; outlive them."
"Add," he adds, "Be smart enough to get out of the rain and to keep active."

Stallings PTA plans election

An election of officers of Stallings School PTA will be held at the April 22 meeting, it was announced by Mrs. Ruth Jorgensen, president, at an executive board meeting.
She said refreshments will be served by the afternoon kindergarten mothers.
During the session, it was reported kindergarten registration for the fall session will be held on April 29. Plans were completed for all student field trips set for May, and the school picnic to be on May 17 at Wilson Park.

The president also reported the last day of school will be on May 28 this year due to no snow days used.
After the meeting, the officers prepared Easter baskets which were presented to each student on Friday.
Others present were Wilma Bowen, Yvonne Counts, Judy Davis, Judy Kopechak, Audrey Ribbing, Janet Simpson and Maudie Bates.

ELECTRIC WHEELCHAIR. An electric wheelchair costing $1,000 has been purchased by the Granite City School District for a 7-year-old multiple handicapped student at Lake school who is one of 22 area children in multiple-handicapped classes there. The wheelchair will allow the student to get around school without the assistance of a teachers aide. From left, Vasil Efthymiou, director of pupil personnel services; Edward Gowa, principal at Lake school; Mrs. Isabel Hudgins, first-grade teacher who works with handicapped children, and Larry R. Dew, director of Region One, Special Education District. Physical therapy is administered to the children on a regular basis in cooperation with the therapy staff of St. Elizabeth hospital.

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT. Mrs. Wanda Hubbell, a teacher-aide at Lake school who works with multiple handicapped children, demonstrates the use of special head gear which may be used in typing by people who do not have the use of their arms. William Novinger, a special education teacher at Lake school, is standing. The Venice School district recently purchased a typewriter and head gear for one of its students.

Crabapple tree sale cancelled, few left

The Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce of a Tri-Cities has announced cancellation of its annual sale of flowering crabapple trees. Mrs. Jo Meyer, Women's Division Beautification chairman, said all 100 trees initially ordered have been sold in advance. An additional 20 trees are expected soon, she added, explaining the recent truck strike has created a backlog of shipments from the Indiana nursery. Persons wishing to place an advance order for a tree from the remaining 20 may call the Chamber office, at 876-6400. A special sale day will be announced should the latter group of trees remain unsold upon arrival, Mrs. Meyer said. Each pink or red Radiant Flowering Crabapple tree costs $3.50. The species is hardy and thrives almost anywhere. The Women's Division has conducted similar sales for the past five years to encourage area residents to beautify the community by planting the trees and not as a profit-making project, the chairman stated.

Fellowship alliance formed

Easter Sunrise services, Thanksgiving services and New Year's watchnight services," Pastor Fife said. Patrick said that at tonight's meeting the group would like for each of the ministers in the area to bring with them a list of the approximate number of seniors in their churches who will participate in graduation services planned May 25.

Foster parents needed by area young people

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services is initiating a recruitment campaign in the Madison County area to find foster parents for adolescent children who, for one reason or another, are unable to live with their natural families. The department is currently facing a critical shortage of foster homes, since an insufficient number of residents applied to meet the needs of children requiring foster placement, a spokesman said. Main requirements for foster parents are flexibility, concern, patience and understanding, according to Al Schebera, resource development worker, Department of Children and Family Services. Foster parents may be couples or individuals. They must be 21 or older, but other than this requirement they may be almost any age group. Some children stay with their foster parents for relatively short periods of time. Others may stay until able to return to their own families or until they enter another permanent living situation, such as adoption—another program offered by the department. In any case, the department pays foster parents a fee for each child. The fee varies with the age and needs of the foster child, and is intended to cover the child's board, clothing and incidental expenses. Medical and dental expenses incurred by foster children are paid separately by the state. Residents of Madison County interested in becoming foster parents or volunteers may contact Al Schebera at 876-8888. Prospective foster parents will be invited to attend a group meeting of applicants. Before becoming a foster parent, a person must be licensed. The licensing process consists primarily of attendance at a group meeting, a series of home interviews with an agency social worker, a medical examination, good references from persons listed on the foster parent application, and attendance at a series of training sessions.

Voters show confidence in present school boards in area

All six incumbent Board of Education members who sought re-election in the Quad-Cities Saturday won new three-year terms, indicating relatively broad public backing for the board members' attempts to cope with admittedly severe financial problems. Seven board positions were filled. Stephen C. Salitch won a seat being vacated on the Granite City board and Norman W. Hall was re-elected. Also re-elected were Mrs. Jacquelyn Leatherman and Richard H. Bailey of the Venice Board of Education and Harold T. Fisk, Donald Boyer and Chester L. McManaway of the Madison board.

School districts here and throughout the nation are seeing their fiscal soundness endangered by inflation and related wage trends. Many are experiencing enrollment losses, reducing the amount of state financial aid from which to meet costs, many of which do not fall despite the number of students served. Resources locally and even statewide are not unlimited and, when overburdened, can be driven to other states.

While solutions are not yet fully viable, the voting public has voiced a preference for stability in the ranks of its decision-makers. It is looking to the existing seven-member boards to represent it in balancing the sometimes conflicting needs of taxpayers, students, school employees and citizens.

Threat to adequate public knowledge of government actions

Guest comment by Ralph Orwell, 1973-74 president of the Society of Professional Journalists (Sigma Delta Chi)—Thousands of American moviegoers are streaming into their local movie houses to see the film version of "All the President's Men," the story of Watergate.

Most will depart the theaters serenely secure in the knowledge that the "Woodstein" twins, as portrayed by Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman, are aggressively at work making certain no one steals democracy. It will be a comforting impression, but one that bears little resemblance to the reality of the moment.

The truth is that court actions and legislative proposals in recent months have created a trend that would make another Watergate, or Pentagon Papers, an unlikely journalistic enterprise.

Given the current trend, Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein would go to jail while Nixon would continue to reign as an unchallenged sovereign.

It is a mournful commentary in this Bicentennial Year that we're celebrating a birthday that ironically begins more and more to resemble a wake for many traditional press freedoms.

Nixon's game plan was to throw the press off balance by attacking its credibility, weakening public confidence and, when necessary, resorting to extra-legal means to harass and intimidate the more persistent reporters.

What the press is facing now is a whole new set of legal inhibitions, most of them coming from the courts in an unending stream, and others either imposed or threatened by the Congress.

The biggest cloud on the Congressional horizon is the long pending revision of the criminal code—a bill labeled S. 1, a cryptic designation that belies the massive size and scope of its content. The portions that have come to be known as the "Official Secrets Act" would hamstring and shackle the coverage of national defense matters probably without precedent.

The bill would not only revive and sanctify capital punishment, but conceivably would impose the death penalty on a reporter who "communicated" defense information that would be advantageous to a foreign country.

On the judicial front, the fair trial-free press problems have recently escalated from minor skirmishes to an all-out battle.

An independent task force of lawyers, journalists and judges a few days ago reported that "the conflict between the courts and the press has intensified in the past two or three years in ways that seriously endanger the traditional freedom of the press."

Our family attended the musical at Granite City High School South. Those young people are a credit to their parents and community.

In these times, when our attention is focused on the few who get in trouble, we should doubly encourage those who put efforts into worthwhile activities such as this to improve their mind and character.

Highest praise to the teachers and faculty who worked so hard with the cast and helped make "The Music Man" the success it was.

Granite City should be proud of its school system and this letter is to say thank you to Granite City High South for the educational opportunities it has given our children. Many parents feel the same, I assure, and the schools have our continued support.

When I came back a few minutes later, it again attacked and I found a large stick which I used to chase it off. When I arrived home, I called the police department and was told they could do nothing more than send a car to talk to the children who had the dog.

This they did and the children denied the dog had attacked me. I own dogs which I keep in our yard and I feel that is where all dogs belong — in their owner's yard or house.

I walk to work, which is only six blocks, and I usually see four to six dogs on the street. What good is a dogcatcher who doesn't catch dogs?

What good are police who can't protect citizens from vicious attacks by dogs that, by law, are supposed to be penned up or muzzled? Some laws that we have!

Legislative leadership up for grabs

By BOB ESTILL
SPRINGFIELD — Rumblings of legislative leadership contests are beginning, although the Nov. 2 general election is seven months away and the seating of a new legislature is nine months in the future.

There is more reason than usual for early maneuvering; at least three of the four top leadership spots will be vacant when the 80th General Assembly convenes in January of 1977.

Senate President, Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, is running for attorney general, Senate Republican Leader William Harris is a candidate for secretary of state, and House GOP Leader William Walshburn was defeated in the primary in a bid for a Republican congressional nomination. That leaves only House

Speaker William Redmond, a Bensenville Democrat who is expected to seek re-election as speaker.

Already a number of lawmakers are the subject of leadership speculation. The speculation comes amidst a general feeling that although Republicans may make gains in the Nov. 2 general election, Democrats will still hold the majority and elect the Senate president and House speaker.

In a Senate now controlled 34 to 25 by the Democrats, Asst. Senate Majority Leader Philip Rock, D-Chicago, looks as the most likely successor to Partee.

The talk that Sen. Richard M. Daley, a freshman lawmaker and the son of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, will challenge Rock, is being downplayed.

Sens. David Shapiro, an Amos dentist, and Bradley Glas, a Northbrook attorney, are being mentioned as possible successors to Harris as the GOP leader in the upper chamber. Sen. John Graham of Barrington, currently an assistant leader, also is the subject of some leadership speculation.

Democrats, who now control the House 101 to 76 as a result of a landslide year for Democrats nationally in 1974, expect to lose some of the seats in 1976 but still retain at least the 80 votes needed for a majority.

Since the Senate president will be a Cook County Democrat, downstate Democrats in the House are likely to insist that the House Speaker be a downstate Democrat.

The big question is: will Rep. Clyde Choate of Anna challenge Redmond — or whoever else enters the field — for the speakership?

House members last time managed to delay the election of a speaker until the 53rd ballot when several Republican lawmakers crossed over to elect Redmond, who was the compromise choice of Daley and Gov. Dan Walker.

Michael Madigan, a Chicago Democrat popular with downstate lawmakers, is another possibility, but the greater likelihood is that Madigan will get the majority leader's spot being vacated by retiring Rep. Gerald Shea, D-Riverdale.

The greatest number of potential contenders is for a successor to Walshburn as the GOP minority leader in the House, and House Republicans usually pick a down-candidate for the spot. Epton has sent out letters to his fellow lawmakers and the news media informing them of his intention to seek the leadership spot. He says he has the support of 21 incumbents who are seeking re-election.

But there are other Republicans whose names are being mentioned. They include Arthur Tolson of Chicago, William Walsh of LaGrange Park, and W. Timothy Simms of Rockford, all of whom are currently in the GOP leadership; Philip Collins of Calumet City; Gilbert Deavers of Normal; George Ryan of Kankakee, and Ben Pelt of Moline.

Tolson, Walsh, Epton and Collins all would start out with one mark against them; they are all from Cook County, and House Republicans usually pick a down-state leader to lead them.

Setback for politics of confrontation

By KEN WATSON
SPRINGFIELD — One's first inclination is to have sympathy for Gov. Dan Walker.

There is something about a governor being turned out of office after only one term. Illinois voters usually give a governor two terms, while state senators holding the line against three.

A rare exception was the defeat of Republican Gov. Richard S. Ogilvie in the 1972 general election.

There was genuine sadness beneath the Statehouse Dome when Ogilvie lost to Walker by the comparatively small margin of 77,494 votes.

Even among Democrats Ogilvie was respected as a governor who had truly placed the welfare of the state above his own and had shown great political courage by pushing for enactment of the state's first income tax. But the Capitol companion that was there for Ogilvie was lacking today for Walker. The general Statehouse attitude is that Walker deserved that he got.

Outside of his own small, inner office staff there has never been any warmth for him in state government. Unlike Ogilvie, he defended within his own administration has been few and lukewarm at best.

His politics of confrontation, which began on his inauguration day, have never set well with those in or associated with state government.

The campaign that doomed him was conducted in the same old style. Walker's inflated campaign for renomination was waged not in the usual manner of a campaign running on his record, but in he familiar negative fashion. Voters were not asked to vote for Dan Walker, but against Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, primary challengers, in that order.

As it turned out, the strategy backfired. Mike Howlett did not win as anticipated because voters considered him a nice guy, although some politicians figured in December that this would be enough.

They did not vote so much for Howlett as they voted against Walker. Howlett was battered around so much during the campaign, which was certainly not one of his best, that the nice guy image had been pretty well blurred by election day.

In the final reckoning Howlett won, not because Democratic primary voters found him best qualified to be governor, but because they considered him the least of two evils.

They had had enough of Walker. Students of politics will long ponder why Walker stuck to the end with his politics of confrontation, when it must have been apparent even to him and his closer strategists that it was not paying off.

Along the way there were many opportunities for him to make his peace, or at least effect a truce, with Daley. The slightest move toward compromise probably would have spared Walker a primary fight.

Yet he purposely and directly challenged and irritated the mayor day after day. Did Walker really think he was riding a tide of the future that would topple the last of America's big city political machines?

Some political strategists believe that if Walker had waged a less strident campaign he might have benefited much more from press accounts of Howlett's private employment while holding state office and reporting of 1972 campaign contributions on his income tax.

Walker's daily attacks on Daley had the counterproductive effect of stirring the mayor's Chicago organization to ever greater effort.

Vicious, unmuzzled dog loose in GC

To the Editor: I am writing this while I am still angry. Tonight I had to walk half a block from my home on some business.

I had only gone two houses when a large collie dog attacked me. It repeatedly tried to bite me while the children it was with did nothing to stop its attacks.

Finally, I pulled my belt off as a weapon and fought off the dog until it broke off the chase.

When I came back a few minutes later, it again attacked and I found a large stick which I used to chase it off. When I arrived home, I called the police department and was told they could do nothing more than send a car to talk to the children who had the dog.

Parents plan May 15 'Service Fair'

David Ziff, a special education consultant for the Southwest Region, was the guest speaker at a meeting of Parents for Special Education held Thursday night at Coolidge Junior High School.

Mrs. Kathy Hahne, president, announced the next skating party will be from 6 to 8 p.m. April 19 at the Stardust Rink, Pontoon Beach.

Annual reviews of all special education students are in progress, according to Larry R. Dew, director of Special Education District Region I.

Also announced was a "Service Fair" for the Quad City area, planned May 15 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at South High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Hahne reported about 25 area organizations will join the local group in presenting the event. Volunteers are needed to assist during the day, she added.

Organizations to be represented at the fair include: Coordinated Youth Services; Council for Exceptional Children; Division of Vocational Rehabilitation; Easter Seal Society; Illinois Department of Public Health; Lewis and Clark Lung Association; Mental Health Clinic; Salvation Army; School Transportation; SIU Pre-School Program.

Southwest Region Special Education Association; Special Education Madison County Region 1; United Cerebral Palsy; SIU Department of

Pathology and Speech with Screening Test; Catholic Children's Home; Family Consulting Center; YMCA; Diabetes; Juderie Center for Autistic Children; Laurel Hanen School for Exceptional Children; Logans School; American Red Cross; and Madison County Neighborhood Service Center.

Central Christian projects

The Christian Women's Fellowship met at Central Christian Church. The group discussed various projects for the coming months.

Vice-president Mrs. Dorothea Rivenburgh opened the meeting with prayer and reports were given by Vanna Berkgier, Margaret Rutter, Blanche Lane, Marge Kacera, Lumita Durbin and Lena Seitzer.

Events of interest reviewed were: a May Fellowship luncheon at 10:30 a.m. May 7, at the First United Presbyterian Church; Ladies Night at 6 p.m., May 1, sponsored by the CWV; and the annual Strawberry Festival on June 12 at the church.

Appointed to serve as chairmen of the festival are: Mildred Rees, "Ye Old Kitchen"; Beth Spengler and Ruby Hart, sweet shoppe; Mildred Collins, strawberry patch; June Aerne and Vanna Berkgier, stitchey; Mary Alexander and Marie Gordon, garden gallery; Lynda Leggett, book worm; Marge Kacera, Christmas in June; and Joyce Bennington, treasures and trivia.

Church Women United have relocated the Newly New Clothing Center at 1412 Niedringhaus Ave., it was announced.

Mrs. Joyce Rutledge shared highlights of a youth seminar she attended in Washington, D.C., and the Rev. Dennis Rutledge asked members turn in their "goals for the coming year" for the church's annual report.

After the meeting a program entitled "The Care of the Earth" was presented by Lois Bilbrey, Mrs. Parrish, Mrs. Rivenburgh and Margaret Turner. Worship was by Guya Stuart.

Group 3 hosted the social hour, using an Easter theme for the table decorations. Lena Seitzer and Mrs. Stuart were in charge of the games.

Lake PTA to see student dancers

Students in the fifth and sixth grades at Lake School will perform square dances as part of the entertainment at the Lake School PTA meeting at 7:30 p.m. April 20.

Plans for the program were finalized at a PTA executive board meeting, conducted by President Pat Withers.

Additional learning center material is needed and will be presented to the parents for approval at the next meeting, it was reported.

Withers noted Spring Carnival time is rapidly approaching and more volunteers to make crafts are needed for the Old Tyme Craft booths to be used as part of the Bicentennial theme.

A discussion also was held on increased security in the school parking lot.

Others present were Edward Goetz, school principal, Phyllis Wiggins and Terry Ducini.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS

By RUSS WALKER

If a gem stone is carved in reverse, with the image recessed into the stone rather than raised upon the surface, it is known as an "intaglio." A raised image is a "cameo."

We can show you lovely cameos and intaglios, cut from various gem stones, with many priced much lower than you might think. Come in and see!

ENERGY MANAGEMENT

An idea whose time has come.

It's time to wake up to the fact that we have to manage the energy we have to achieve the life we want.

Energy management begins with proper insulation.

"Frills"? Not any more!

There was a time when energy was cheap and plentiful. When it seemed that all we had to do to enjoy the good life was to flip switches and press buttons.

Today energy is no longer so cheap or so plentiful. We must think of energy in a new way. No longer as a perpetually abundant commodity. But rather as a valuable resource to be carefully managed.

This new concept puts it squarely up to each of us to be not just an energy consumer, but an energy manager.

Most of us live in homes built in the happy-go-lucky days when plenty of energy was taken for granted. For years most homes were built with no insulation. Later a skimpy three inches of attic insulation was considered plenty.

The result is an untold amount of precious energy wasted, literally going through the roof.

Upgrading a home's attic insulation to modern standards is simple and relatively inexpensive compared to the large amounts of energy saved.

Besides attic insulation, there are many other energy-conserving features, once considered "frills" omitted from far too many homes. These include storm doors and windows, weatherstripping, caulking, wall and crawl space insulation, efficient door closers, attic vents and exhaust fans. Such items belong in an energy management program for every home and every business.

Energy management does not mean austerity, discomfort or inconvenience. Rather it is the means by which we can make wise use of the energy we have to achieve the life we want. And to make our lives even better.

In future messages, Illinois Power will be addressing the subject of energy management in the hope of helping our residential and business customers understand more about wise use of one of our country's most important resources.

IT'S OUR BUSINESS TO SERVE YOU BETTER

Town electors meet Tuesday

A report by Nelson Hagauer, supervisor of Granite City Township, listing total expenses of $404,743 in four separate township accounts during the fiscal year ending Feb. 28 will be offered for final approval by town electors in the annual town meeting tomorrow night.

The supervisor's annual report, listing expenses of $163,747 in the town fund, $201,947 in the general assistance fund, $29,725 in the municipal retirement fund and $9,322 in the federal revenue sharing account, was approved by the Granite City Town Board of Auditors in a special meeting last week.

Similar reports will be submitted for approval of the electors in a series of annual town meetings in the Quad-City area Tuesday. The meetings are mandated by law on the second Tuesday of April.

The schedule of annual town meetings tomorrow includes: Venice Township, 2 p.m. in the council chambers of the Venice City Hall.

Granite City Township, 7 p.m. in the council chambers on the third floor of the City Hall.

Nameoki Township, 7 p.m. at the Nameoki Town Hall, 4250 Highway 162.

Chouteau Township, 7:30 p.m. at the Fun and Sun resort on West Chain of Rocks Road.

Venice Township electors will be given the opportunity in their 2 p.m. meeting tomorrow to vote on township road and bridge budgets and new appropriation bills for the town fund and the general assistance funds.

But Venice will be the only township in which budget procedures will be considered.

Town budgets for Granite City, Nameoki and Chouteau townships have not yet been completed. The Town Boards in those three townships already have approved road and bridge fund appropriations.

In past years, budget adoptions were the principal business of the annual town meetings in which electors — residents of the township — considered projected expenditures for the coming year.

Under provisions of the 1970 Illinois Constitution, however, town budgets now are controlled by the Town Board of officials and no longer are submitted at the annual meetings.

Most of the business at the electors' meetings in Granite City, Nameoki and Chouteau meetings will be limited to approval of the supervisors' annual reports and the appointment of a township attorney and other township appointive officials.

The preliminary approval of the Granite City Township supervisor's report in a special meeting last week was a new departure in usual procedure.

The report submitted by Hagauer showed that receipts last year in the town fund amounted to $146,593, most of it in tax collections, plus a balance of $33,931 remaining from last year, for a total of $174,524.

Expenditures of $163,747 against this total left a balance of $10,776 at the beginning of the current year on March 1, according to the report.

Income in the general assistance fund totaled $138,729, added to a year-end balance of $64,734, gave that account total revenue of $203,463. Expenditures of $1,575 for the 1975-76 year left a balance of $1,575 at the beginning of the new year on March 1.

GC auto tag sale starts on April 19

Auto license tags will go on sale at the office of City Clerk Robert Stevens on April 19, it was announced Friday.

Wheel tax stickers are to be displayed by Granite City motorists on May 1 under the present ordinance, but a deadline of May 15 has been set for purchasing the license tags, Stevens said.

Stevens emphasized that while the tax stickers cost motorists $3 for passenger cars, senior citizens may buy the licenses for $1 upon presentation of their driver's license as proof of age.

The reduced price for senior citizens will remain in effect until the May 15 deadline. After that date, the wheel tax tags for senior citizens, along with those purchased by all other Granite City motorists, will increase to $5.50.

After May 15, all motorists will be subject to arrest and fines if they fail to display the license tags on their cars.

Hagauer reported that the federal revenue sharing account had a balance of $208,697 at the beginning of the 1975-76 year and received a total of $171,915 during the year for total income of $495,712. Expenditures out of that fund left a balance of $450,389 at the beginning of the new year last month.

Urban park

Horseshoe Lake effort and in assisting state planners in determining what they would like the lake to offer.

He noted the two parks will attract a great many tourists to this area and said they will have an effect on the economy here. "Statistically, every man who comes here and stays overnight will spend about $45 a day. That is money brought in from the outside."

"That money will change hands about five or six times before it leaves this area," Mikesell said.

Monday showed slides of the lake and showed areas where picnic areas, camping areas and other improvements could be placed.

He said the most immediate proposals of the state after all the land is acquired are to dredge around the edge of the lake and use the dirt to form some crumbling banks, to possibly stock the lake with fish and allow fishing from the shore, and to put in camping and picnic areas, as well as hiking trails.

He said the lake is too shallow for high speed boats, but noted rowboats, canoes and boats with small motors probably will be allowed on the lake soon after the park opens.

Longer range plans call for dredging to deepen the water, construction of a marina, development of waterfront feeding areas, and other improvements.

He cited several problems, noting, "I believe all of them can be overcome."

One is to remove the scattered developments around the lake and replace them with coordinated developments. Another is to deepen the lake which is only three to four feet in most areas.

A third problem is pollution from nearby industries, but he cited an $11 million water treatment facility being constructed by Granite City Steel which could resolve most of that problem when finished in two years.

Mikesell commented three different state agencies have been seeking different uses for the lake. The Environmental Protection Agency wants the lake into which clean water can be discharged from industry.

The Department of Conservation wants it reserved for recreation, and the Division of Waterways wants to use it as a holding area for drainage water after storms.

"The state is just going to have to get its act together," Mikesell noted.

He noted the new park will contain more than 1,500 acres of water and more than 1,700 acres of land, a total of about 3,200 acres.

He compared it to Forest Park, which has 1,400 acres, and commented, "You could put Forest Park in the water of Horseshoe Lake."

"Add the 2,000 to 2,500 acres proposed for Cahokia Mounds State Park and within a decade we will see this coming together to be one of the largest and greatest park areas in the state, and in the middle of an urban area. It is a great achievement," Mikesell said.
